A fairy named Bossy Betty liked to do just what she wanted. Her wand helped her do this. One day, she was looking for someone who would take her to the fairy king of Ring-Ting. Busy bee came flying by. He was afraid to be changed into a pumpkin seed so he took Bossy Betty to the fairy king.

After seeing the fairy king, Bossy Betty saw Milly Butterfly who was afraid to be changed into a firefly. She took Bossy Betty home in spite of the rain. They rested on top of a flower. A cow came along and bumped the flower as it moved around. Milly Butterfly flew away, but Bossy Betty fell into a brook. Betty's wand fell into the water, too. Freddy Frog got it, but he wouldn't give it to her. Bossy Betty begged dearly to Freddy Frog. But Freddy Frog wouldn't give back her wand until she would say, "Please." Since then, Bossy Betty became very kind to everyone and she became a good friend of Freddy Frog.

___ Bossy Betty begged Freddy Frog to return her wand. Freddy Frog and Bossy Betty became friends.

___ They rested on top of a flower. A cow bumped the flower, so it shook.

How The Cow and Carabao Got Their Suit

Many years ago, Cow and Carabao looked different from the way they look today. The Cow and Carabao worked together on the farm, so they became very good friends. They plowed the rice fields and pulled carts with firewood and sacks of grains. Their master was not a nice man. He would often hit them with a long stick. He did not allow Cow and Carabao to take a bath or pay them for their work.

One day Cow and Carabao decided to run away from the farm. While their master took a nap, they took turns quietly eating a hole through the bamboo fence that kept them imprisoned. When they were free, they ran and ran as fast as they could. They did not stop running until early the next morning.

Suddenly they saw a pond of clear water so they decided to take a bath. After a while, they heard their master coming over the hill. "Come back here, you bad cattle!" he shouted angrily. Cow and Carabao jumped out of the water and quickly put on their clothes. Cow ran to the other side of the pond and Carabao ran to the opposite side of the hill.

When Carabao stopped running, he felt very hot. He felt that his clothes were very tight for him, especially around the neck. When Cow stopped running, he took a rest under a big tree. He felt the breeze touching his neck and began to feel cold. His collar was very loose. When he looked at his suit he noticed that it was brown all over. "This is Carabao's suit, not mine", he said. Unfortunately, the two friends never changed back into the right clothes because they never met again.

Part 2. Summarizing Story Events (pagbubuod ng pangyayari sa kwento)

Instruction: Read the story carefully. Basahin ang kwento ng maigi.*

The Hungry Mouse

Once there was a mouse. She was having a tough time because of not being able to find any food for days. So, the little creature started searching for food everywhere. But alas! the mouse could not find any. So, it also looked in every hole in search of food. But those were empty too. So, all her effort went in vain.

The mouse, due to not eating for days, had grown thin. So, one day, she went out to look for food again. Suddenly, she found a big basket placed on the floor. When the mouse saw that, she thought there must be food in the basket. So, she went closer and closer to the basket. But she made sure that no one saw her.

When she went to the basket, she found it filled with corn. But she thought, “How can I get inside?” Since the basket was big, she could not jump into it. Most importantly, due to not eating, the mouse was not as strong as it used to be. “How can I get in?” She told herself.

Though she could not find a way to get in the basket, she kept looking. Suddenly, she saw a tiny hole in the basket. She thought she could get inside the basket by using the hole. So, she waited no more and started to go into the basket through the hole.

After getting into the basket, she saw that the basket was full of corn. She could eat it for days. So, she started eating the corn. The next day, she ate a little more, then a little more, and she kept eating the corn.

One day she realised that she had eaten more than she needed. So once she became satisfied by overeating corn, she decided to come out of the basket. But the mouse had grown so fat after overeating corn that she could not escape through the tiny hole.

The mouse became scared and screamed, “Oh God! I am stuck! Please let me come out. How can I come out of here?” At this time, a rat was passing by the basket. He heard the mouse screaming in fear. He stopped to see what was happening and asked the mouse, “What happened?”

The mouse said, “I am stuck here. I cannot get out using the hole.” So she told the story to the rat too and asked him to give him a solution. But the rat told him, “Well, if you want to come out of the basket, wait to become thin again. That is the only way you can come out through the hole,” and he went away.

Now, the mouse could not find any other way but to wait for days to become thin again. So she stayed inside the basket without eating anything even though there was still a lot of corn left.

The Wolf in Sheep's Clothing
Aesop's Fable

A certain Wolf could not get enough to eat because of the watchfulness of the Shepherds. But one night he found a sheep skin that had been cast aside and forgotten. The next day, dressed in the skin, the Wolf strolled into the pasture with the Sheep. Soon a little Lamb was following him about and was quickly led away to slaughter.

That evening the Wolf entered the fold with the flock. But it happened that the Shepherd took a fancy for mutton broth that very evening, and, picking up a knife, went to the fold. There the first he laid hands on and killed was the Wolf.
